LADD, WEBSTER & CO.'S
FAMILY
SEWING MACHINES
ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
—AND—
Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a tight lock-stitch, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer; should stitch, fell, run and gather; and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, or ravel.

The undersigned are General Agents for the general supervision of these unrivalled machines for Pacific States and Western Coast of Mexico.

THE VICTORY OF ISLAND No. 10—The San Francisco Bulletin gives us the right talk upon this great achievement It says·

"The news of to-day would ensure to a loyal man the digestion of the most wretched dinner; it would make lead soluble in his gastric juice, so cheering is it, so directly is it in the line not merely of Union successes, but of successes strategically, bravely and scientifically secured. The victory which results in the surrender of Island No 10, with 3 generals, 6,000 prisoners, 100 siege pieces and immense quantities of arms, equipments and provisions, was achieved under circumstances that reflect equal honor on the gallant bravery and endurance of our troops and the cool courage and genius of our generals. A point on the Mississippi where Nature gave the enemy every advantage, and which it had held Columbus long enough to fortify to apparent impregnability, is captured without the loss of a single man of our forces The bombardment of Island No. 10 by Flag officer Foote was commenced on the 17th of March. On the 8th of April the Island surrendered. Twenty two days the enemies on its height held out. Supported by Hollin's gunboats, by floating batteries and batteries planted on the east bank of the river below and above the Island, with railroad connections with Memphis and Corinth to reinforce them as largely as need be, they bade fair to dispute the further passage of our gunboats down the river for many weeks, or, until surrounded by our land forces in large numbers, and an evacuation was made necessary.

The victory was complete. The effect upon the demoralized forces of the enemy, huddled together at Corinth and about Richmond, must be terribly depressing There are on the Mississippi, below Island No 10, Forts Pillow and Harris, and not a few inconsiderable batteries still guarding and barring the way to Memphis, but unless the panic-stricken rebels can turn the Mississippi to running up stream, they cannot dam the flow of the Union armies down the river Memphis has long enjoyed a paper Avalanche—now an avalanche of iron is on its way to that devoted city, from which nothing but white flags and repentance can save it

We suspect that Bishop Gen. Polk succeeded in making his escape from Island No 10 His name will now go on the immortal roll with Floyd, Pillow, Sid Johnson and Wise The Bishop General should now take up the prayer of the Portland Advertiser—"Vouchsafe to paralyze the arms of the government," though we don't think it would help him any.

An enquiry has been made of us by some citizens of "Long Tom," whether there is a "pack trail open up the Columbia to the Dalles?" Will some one who has knowledge on the subject give us the desired information?

A friend from "Long Tom" writes us—"I see in the Eugene paper something concerning an armed mob to resist the collection of the direct tax here I am a full blooded Union man, without any conditions, and I do not believe there is any truth in the report"

A dispatch dated Cairo, April 6th, says, "We are not allowed to telegraph contemplated movements at present,"

The Richmond Whig and Norfolk Day Book urge a speedy destruction of cotton and tobacco.

News of April 6th.

CAIRO, April 6th—The gunboat Carondelet ran the rebel fortifications at No 10, and arrived safely at Gen Pope's headquarters Considerable firing was heard yesterday in the vicinity of New Madrid

The running of the Carondelet was a great achievement. The night was dark; and though she was exposed to a running fire was not hit by a ball

A deserter says the rebels are much alarmed at No 10

News of the 7th

WASHINGTON, April 6th—Russell, the London Times' correspondent, sails for China on the 9th

The traitors are grievously disappointed at the change of the programme of the army on the Potomac They thought they would make a dash on Washington and through on Maryland Gen. Jackson was to lead this enterprise It was expected the rebel sympathizers in Maryland would raise the standard of rebellion on the occasion But the whole rebel programme has failed

WASHINGTON, April 7th—The Fortress Monroe boat brings information from the neighborhood of Yorktown up to Saturday afternoon Shipping Point had been taken by our troops, and also other places on the route formerly occupied by the rebels Some skirmishing had taken place between the outposts of the enemy and our forces, in which several casualties are said to have occurred—mostly in Eastern regiments

NEW YORK, April 7th—A letter has been received in Mystic, Connecticut, dated Bordeaux, March 12th, which states that there was a large English steamer in that port having on board 3,000 tons of cargo, worth $1,000,000, which was about ready to sail for a market, intending to attempt to run the blockade at New Orleans

A letter received from Hilton Head, S. C., says From North Edisto, we have stirring intelligence The rebels have come down in considerable force, and succeeded in cutting off, the other night, nearly an entire company belonging to the 55th Pennsylvania Regiment, which was on land as a picket at Port Royal

It says also that an iron clad rebel gunboat made its appearance in the Savannah river, coming down, last week, near the head of Elba Island, where it was plainly seen from on board our vessels, which lay in the mouth of the river supporting the batteries A drawing of it was made, and it is described as very much resembling the Merrimac in appearance, but it is much smaller in size, and is considered to be in every way less formidable

HARTFORD, Conn, April 7th—The annual State election is progressing quietly, with every indication that the Republican and Union ticket will carry the State

ST JOSEPH, Mo, April 9—10 P. M
HEADQUARTERS,
DEPARTMENT OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
ST. LOUIS, April 7—8 10, A M

To HON. EDWIN M STANTON, Secretary of War, Washington

Gen Pope crossed the Mississippi River yesterday, captured the enemy's floating battery, carrying 14 guns, and occupied Tiptonville.

The enemy were driven from all their works below New Madrid, leaving behind their artillery, baggage and sick A land battery of twelve heavy guns is taken

Gen Pope will attack Island No 10 to day, and hopes to get in the rear of the enemy's upper battery before night

H. W. HALLECK,
Major General Commanding

LATER.—Island No 10 has surrendered The enemy have abandoned the upper land batteries and are endeavoring to escape across a swamp Gen Pope is endeavoring to cut them off They abandoned everything

Brig Gen W W Mackall, late of the U S Adjutant General's Department, and over 2 000 of the rebel forces have surrendered to Gen Pope, and it is expected that many more will be captured to day Immense quantities of artillery and supplies have fallen into our hands

The enemy attacked our forces at Pittsburg, Tenn., yesterday, but were repulsed with great loss No details given.

Gen. Pope has captured 3 generals 6 000 prisoners of war, 100 siege pieces and several field batteries, with immense quantities of small arms, tents wagons horses and provisions Our victory is complete and overwhelming We have not lost a single man

News of the 8th.

JULESBURG, April 9th—p m—A dispatch dated Denver City, March 7, says Mr Jonas Kiskadden has just arrived with important news from New Mexico On the 26th ult., the command under Col Slough, numbering above 1,000 men, reached Apache Pass Major Chivington took three companies of cavalry and proceeded in advance of the main body, to intercept and capture some of the enemy Word having reached the command that 250 rebel cavalry were 15 miles from the Pass, the Major found the enemy as described, and whipped them out in a short time, taking 57 prisoners The Major lost 4 killed and 11 wounded After accomplishing this the Major returned to the command, which was on the way down the western slope Santa Fe

The command under Col Slough kept on its way, encountering no enemy until arriving at Pigeon Ranch, 15 miles from Santa Fe, where it met at the mouth of the Canon 1,100 Texans This was on Friday February 28th—engagement commencing about noon Col Slough with seven companies engaged the enemy's front, while Chivington, with four companies, two of cavalry and two of infantry, deployed and attacked the rebels' rear, driving the guard from the rebels' supply train, capturing and burning them The train consisted of 61 wagons The Major also captured and spiked one of the enemy's guns, then retired and joined the main force Meanwhile our forces under Colonel Slough contended desperately against superior numbers and disadvantage of ground, the enemy being walled in at the mouth of a deep canon

At 4 o'clock the fighting ceased by mutual consent—Col Slough withdrew to a creek four miles in the rear. Loss on our side 20 killed—3 officers and 40 to 50 wounded Rebel loss not known

The officers killed are Capt Cook, Company F, Lieutenant Baker, Company I, Lieutenant Chambers, Company C Captain Cook was wounded in the first fight Names of the killed among the privates are not given

Mr. Kiskadden left the morning after the fight, and expects before this the contest has been decided one way or the other

Colonel Canby was within a short distance of Santa Fe, Communication between him and Colonel Slough was continually kept up, and the prospects were that Sibley was in a tight fix It is hoped that Slough will fall back to Fort Union to wait Canby, when an advance can be made with success.

Mr Kiskadden will [illegible] to the Command

CAIRO, April 7—On Friday evening about 7 o'clock our forces at Pittsburgh, Tenn., were attacked by two regts of infantry, two pieces of artillery and a large force of cavalry The enemy fired one round and retreated Our troops returned the fire, killed several and captured sixteen We lost one man The rebels retreated to Corinth

WASHINGTON, April 7—When the Merrimac ran into Norfolk, she had 7 feet water in her hull One shot from the Cumberland riddled her; some shots from the Monitor went through her port-hole and dismounted two guns—The Monitor put a ball thro' the boiler of the Patrick Henry, killing two men and scalding others

NEW YORK, April 8—The Tribune's Tennessee correspondent says that the rebels in northern Mississippi do not exceed 30,000 men, and half of these raw recruits

Gen Butler arrived at Ship Island on the 20th A rebel fleet of gun boats had appeared in Mobile bay

"The U S gunboat at Santiago de Cuba threw a shell into a steamer laden with cotton on the coast of Louisiana and she was burnt to the water's edge The schooner Grace E Baker, with 120 bales cotton for Havana, was captured by the gunboat R R Cuyler."

[illegible] the ceiling [illegible] good order; the [illegible] and covering boards are in good order. [illegible] Steamship [illegible] [illegible] the whole of the [illegible] [illegible] quality and extra length, and has been strengthened with extra [illegible]. I inspected the vessel [illegible] planks, and found the timbers sound [illegible] and iron-fastened, and sheathed with yellow metal up to 14 feet. She has three masts, [illegible] forward. The masts, spars, standing rigging and sails are in good order; four boats; the present tackle is [illegible] [illegible]. It is my opinion the said steamship Sierra Nevada is now in good and seaworthy condition and entitled to the confidence of underwriters, passengers and shippers.

Papers in Reference to the Disloyalty of Mr. Stark

We continue the publication of these papers We felt indisposed to publish them until they appeared, in what, heretofore, has been his special organ. We chose not to wantonly wound the feelings of his family or his friends, for we repeat, that in regard to the social character of Mr Stark we make no complaint

Mr Stark's disloyal course was long well understood by the Union men of this community They had seen the injuries to government arising from the presence of such men in office in Washington City, and many of them felt it to be their duty to apprise the government of the disloyal character of Mr Stark, that it might take such action in the case as it should regard as proper. The affidavits prepared for this purpose were sent to the Secretary of the State That he made a proper disposition of them the following document from him will show

GENTLEMEN —Your letter of the 21st of November, with the accompanying affidavits, concerning the disloyal character of Mr Stark, recently appointed by the Governor of your State to fill the vacancy created by the decease of the late Colonel Baker, has been received, and I have already made such use of the information it contains as would in my judgment be most likely to subserve the public interest I am Gentlemen,

Be it remembered that on this eighteenth day of November A D 1861, before me, a justice of the peace in and for said county and State, personally and voluntarily appeared Wesley C Hull, a good and substantial citizen of Portland, county and State aforesaid, to me well known as being a man of truth and veracity who, being by me first duly sworn to tell the truth and nothing but the truth in this his affidavit, did upon his solemn oath, depose and say that he is well acquainted with Benjamin Stark, recently appointed to a seat in the United States Senate by Governor Whittaker of Oregon. That in the month of February, 1861, he heard said Benjamin Stark make use of the following language in substance at the Postoffice in the city of Portland "If there be any war between the North and South, all my property is for sale at fifty cents on the dollar and I will go and help the South fight The Palmetto flag is my flag The Southern Confederacy is the only legal government in existence, that the United States government is broken up that Jeff Davis is fighting in a good cause, and it will be impossible to defeat him" That afterwards, upon another occasion, affiant heard said Benjamin Stark make use of the following language "The United States forces may fight the South from one end of their government to the other, but it will amount to nothing, they will close up behind them, and they cannot be conquered The South is fighting in a good cause, for government and order, and they cannot be conquered,' and further the said Hull saith not WESLEY C HULL

HOLY BIBLES and PRAYER BOOKS BEAUTIFULLY BOUND, apr7dtf at CHARLES BARRETT'S

A Copper-Bottomed Conscience.

When I hear a minister preach a sermon from the text, "He that provideth not for his own house, hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel," and then scold his wife for cooking too many potatoes, cutting up too much bread, and berate his children because they ask for decent clothes to go to church in—I think he has a copper-bottomed conscience.

When I hear him preach, "Offer your bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto the Lord," with a large quid of tobacco in his cheek, and a hat full of cigars in the pulpit, I think he has a copper-bottomed conscience, and wonder if angels love the smell of tobacco smoke.

When I see a man make ten dollars on a trade out of an honest, poor man, then head a subscription list to carry Bibles to the heathen, I think he has a copper-bottomed conscience, and when I see him drop three cents into the contribution box—(how convenient it would be to have little silver half cents coined!)—I think the copper plates are well riveted on.

When I see a lady (?) spin ten yards of street-yarn a day, and tangle into the skein the affairs of a whole neighborhood, I think she has a copper-bottomed conscience, and ought to have her shoes and tongue protected with the alloy of this metal with zinc.

When I see a young man get up a flirtation with a dozen young girls, and make proposals to them all, I think he has a copper-bottomed conscience.

When a rich man attaches the property of a poor creditor, and by so doing compels him to close up his business at a heavy loss, I think his conscience is copper-bottomed.

When I see an editor whose paper is well established, try to injure another and younger paper in the vicinity, I think his conscience, if he has any, is copper-bottomed.

When I hear the inhabitants of one town speak against the schools and academies of a neighboring town, I think copper will soon be in good demand among them.

When I see professed temperance men carrying red noses, and spending their evenings in "spiritual" saloons, I very much fear their consciences are copper-bottomed.

When we see a State passing laws to prohibit the sale of spirituous liquors, and then "winking" at a groggery, or lager-beer, and whisky saloon in every neighborhood, I think there are many copper-bottomed consciences among our law-makers, and that the metal would with equal propriety be called "Native Copper," though not of the "Superior" order.

Fort Benton Wagon Road.—From Mr Toohill, expressman to Lieut. Mullan's Wagon Road party, we learn the following particulars of the progress of the work. The winter camp was made on the Big Blackfoot, at the junction of Hellgate. Some thirty substantial log houses had been built in which the party passed the winter comfortably. Provisions were abundant, and the health of the men composing the command excellent. The party numbered fifty citizens, and a military escort of one hundred men. The winter had been comparatively mild—much warmer than in the valleys below. Work on the road had not been suspended, and everything was progressing finely. The road will be placed in thorough order in time for the spring emigration, when it is computed that thousands will come that way. From the head of the Bitter Root Valley there is a good wagon road to Salmon River, which can be traveled over in three days. The adventurers from the Mississippi Valley, without doubt, will find it to their advantage to take that route. According to our informant, emigrants can reach Salmon River in ten days from Fort Benton. A large number of steamboats are expected to come up from St Louis to Fort Benton in the spring, and with them a rush of emigrants. All along the Missouri the excitement in relation to the Salmon River mines is intense, and a vast accession to the population of the upper country may be expected from that source. The bridge over the Big Blackfoot has been completed, and the road from that point to Walla Walla is in excellent condition, and with the coming spring our people will begin to realize the benefits that are to result from the completion of this great enterprise.—Mountaineer.

Great Pedestrian Feat.—We learn from the Leicestershire Mercury (England) that Alfred Hellson recently undertook to walk on six successive days the distance of seventy miles a day. He commenced his performance on Monday, July 20th, and completed it with ease on Saturday, the 26th, doing it within the specified time. The seventy miles were usually walked in about fourteen hours, but on one of the days they were completed in twelve. A great variety of opinion was entertained as to the possibility of his succeeding in his attempt. While on travel he took very little food except beef tea, or a small bit of mutton half cooked, and a little stimulant occasionally. In stature he is about the middle hight, thin, extremely muscular, and having a somewhat intellectual countenance. Taking into consideration the rough country roads which he had to traverse, the distance which he walked, and the apparent ease with which it was accomplished, his feat was certainly very extraordinary, and we should greatly question whether many horses could be found equal to the performance of it.

When on travel, Hellson had a slight swing with his arms, and appeared to be going at a steady rate of three miles an hour, and it was only when any one attempted to keep up with him that his real pace was perceptible. His usual pace was from four to six miles an hour. He has now undertaken to run a friendly match of ten miles against ten of the best runners in Melbourne, he to start and continue running the whole distance, whilst the Melbourne men are to be placed at intervals of a mile apart, the first of whom is to start and run until he comes to the second, who then takes up the running till he reaches the third, and so on to the end of the distance.
